GSF Working Group on Indigenous students

Provides a platform for indigenous student representatives to articulate their concerns, share their cultures, and highlight their communities' contributions to global diversity.

Fosters a global exchange of ideas, strategies, and best practices in addressing indigenous issues within academic institutions and student governance.

Works collaboratively towards advocating for educational policies and practices that are inclusive of indigenous perspectives, rights, and histories.

Strengthens solidarity among student representatives worldwide, focusing on common goals related to indigenous rights, environmental stewardship, and cultural preservation.

Structure
The group is comprised of student representatives from various geographical regions who are either indigenous themselves or are actively engaged in working on indigenous issues within their student communities. A member of the GSF leadership chairs the group.
